Hiring high school students may seem like a difficult process, but it's not! Learn how to recruit, retain, and grow your future workforce by employing high school students.

Join Sinclair College's Work-based Learning Office, The Warren County Educational Service Center and the Ohio Department of Commerce for coffee and hear from a variety of presenters that will help your company understand the process of recruiting your next generation of talented workers.

The Ohio Department of Commerce will be on hand to explain the minor labor laws and debunk the myths surrounding high school students.

We will also feature a panel of businesses that currently employ high school students who will share their processes and integration of high school students in their workforce.

Teach high school students to build their futures, and build your team and a better Ohio at the same time.
